

Disproportionate Representation: The Intersection of Race, Religion, and Region in America's Welfare System

This session will address disproportionality within the child welfare system. We will discuss the latest research related to anti-racism within child welfare and will provide recommendations for improving outcomes for African American children and families.

learning objectives

1. describe the impact of disproportionality within the child welfare system
2. describe current research related to anti-racism within child welfare
3. list 3 recommendations for improving outcomes for African American children and families